

Senior Spotlight

Jim Choplick, 79

Jim first heard about our center through a friend, who invited him to play basketball! For health reasons, Jim's wife did not want him to play basketball. Jim looked for other activities and quite quickly found a Spanish class and the woodshop. In the end, his wife was right, and he found his place here at Bykota.

Jim can be found most mornings in the woodshop creating amazing jewelry boxes and more...

Outside of Bykota, Jim and his wife collect antiques—specifically kitchen antiques. Jim belongs to various organizations and is known to do presentations on his collection. You can often see different pieces of his collection displayed in the front display case.

“My main collection has been apple peelers, with 94 different types,” explains Jim.
